

Consent to Release Education Records

Shenandoah respects our students' right to privacy and complies with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA) as amended. FERPA rights regarding a student's education record belong to the student, if the student is 18 or older or, attending any school beyond the secondary level, regardless of age. SU may release student information to parents if:

There is a health or safety emergency.

The student is under 21 and has violated an SU rule related to alcohol or controlled substances.

In all other circumstances, SU must have a signed authorization from the student on file prior to releasing education records to any third parties, even to parents.

Restrictions or permissions related to the sharing of education records extend to Shenandoah alumni as well, so any requests the student makes will remain in effect indefinitely unless the student submits a change, in writing, to the Registrar's Office.
